In Memoriam

Flower Garden

Today I heard the shocking news of the loss
In the garden my friend had grown.
The flower was gone I had often noticed,
Torn from the garden without a warning.
I had seen the flower the day before,
Among its brothers, on their sheltered mount,
Content with the rays their petals had found.

I had rushed to the garden filled with despair,
Hoping to find a petal, to ease my pain.
Though I searched, none was left,
Only the spot where the flower had grown.
I fell to my knees and looked to the sky,
Why was it taken? Give me an answer!
Take the weeds and vines that choke our gardens,
But leave the flowers that please our souls.
Don't pick the ones that need to grow.

As I raised and turned to leave the Garden, I glanced at the flowers that Still remained. Here — here is the reason
Our flower was taken. The lesson to learn
Is not for the flowers, but
For me, the one who watched them grow.
For flowers don't dwell on the ones
The gardener has taken, but on the ones that continue to grow. Don't think of its tragic Loss, but of the beauty it gave while it was here.
Try to find a smile, and not a painful tear.
